THINKING OUT LOUD

By H. M. L. Jr.

Secretary of State James Byrnes in Stutgart, Germany, tells Russia just what our policy is in Europe, Asia and the rest of the world. Secretary of Commerce Henry Wallace in Madison Square Garden, New York, tells Russia that we are going to learn to live with Russia and that the imperialism of Great Britain is the growing peril of the world rather than Russian expansion.

Wallace announced that his pro-Russian speach had the blessing of President Harry Truman, and it is fair to assume that Byrnes also had the president's blessing since the State Department is usually the first concern of any president. Where does that leave President Truman? It leaves him astraddle a six rail fence, if you ask us, and puts the Secretary of State out on a very high limb. In our opinion the president is rapidly diminishing in stature. Nobody in his right mind would blow hot and cold in a time like this, unless he failed utterly to comprehend that the two speaches were diametrically opposed as regards the foreign policy of the United States.

And what business has Henry Wallace of the Commerce Department putting in his oar in the matters of state as effecting our policy toward Russia. Of course Wallace got a big hand in Madison Square Garden. There are surely enough redhot pinks in a city of 7,000,000 to fill the Garden. He could come out to Los Angeles and speak in Hollywood Bowl and get even a bigger crowd and bigger hand. One pink attracts other pinks.

The diametrically opposed views of Wallace and Brynes will of course cause Stalin to get another photo taken showing him a big Mona Lisa grin. 'When are you going to stop killing people," asked Lady Astor. "When it is no longer necessary" replied Stalin.

Hitlerian diplomacy was never rougher than that of Molotov who is the voice of Stalin. Hitler ambitiou never valuted higher than that of Stalin. Communism, with the Russians is a religion, and they are out convert the world, just as the encient Hebrews were, with sword and fire. Their absorption of border states along the Balkans without much bloodshed from their point of view is simply good luck. It saves men and munitions for the greater struggle which the Russians envision.

Our Uncle Samuel will wait probably as he has always waited, for the adversary to strike the first blow. We "remember Pearl Harbor" and we "remember the Maine", further back we "remember the Alamo" and before that we "remember the impression of American seamen in the British navy", and even before that in Revolutionary times we remember the American suffered a lot of indignities before they got their dander up and began fighting.

We are tired of remembering Uncle Samuel's tardy entrance into any of his wars. We would like to give someone of our adversaries something to remember and do it first.

We regard Truman as one of those unfortunate transients, from a historical standpoint, who strutted his stuff for a short time on the world stage. History, we doubt not, will recall him as a Roosevelt mannikin dressed for a minor role, who suddenly finds himself thrust into the world's greatest rale, and is only able to remember his haberdashery lines.

The president never so much diminished his own stature as by giving the okay to Byrnes speach on foreign policy, and then turning around and okaying the foreign policy speach of Henry Wallace, Secretary of Commerce. Wallace sought to placate Russia by attacking Great Britain as imperialistic at the very moment that country is trying to give India its independence, Byrnes voiced belated though it was the sentiment of millions of Americans who are dreadfully tired of dancing to a Russian fiddle.

As a matter of cold fact the Russians would probably have been beaten except for the aid sent them at tremendous cost by the United States. That they survived the Hitler juggernaut is due to no virtue of of their own, but to the assistance rendered them by their then allies, Great Britain and the United States. Upon them Russia has now turned, determined apparently to go on with the communist revolution, anathema to every American save Henry Wallace and his fellow travelers.

MELIO SOLARO KILLED WHILE RIDING HORSE

Melio Solaro, 36, brother of Chief of Police Max Solaro, was killed last evening, apparently from injuries caused when he slipped and fell while attempting to mount a horse and it stepped on him at 7:30 o'clock last evening.

Solaro was out with a party of horseback riders including James and Albert Peard, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Granholm and Daniel Crawford. He dismounted from his horse and in attempting to mount again the horse swerved and threw him to the ground and according to one story, stepped on his chest. Another story was that a truck, driven by Bill Chappell passing at the moment, drove over him, when Solaro, attempting to mount the horse fell beneath the rear wheels of the truck.

Dr. Walker W. Reed, who was at the Miners Hospital when an ambulance brought Solaro there, and who pronounced the man dead, states that he does not believe a truck ran over him. He states his left chest was crushed.

Autopsy will be held to ascertain the cause of death. The remains are in charge of Holmes Funeral Home.

Solaro, a truck driver employed by the city, leaves his mother, Mrs. Terisa Solaro, his wife Mary, and two children, aged 12, and Melio Jr., 10.

SOPHOMORES IN CLEAN SWEEP WIN HI SCHOOL BRAWL

Sophomores headed by Class President Robert Topliff, made a clean sweep of the annual Freshman-Sophomore brawl at Nevada City high school Friday afternoon, in sports events which occurred between 2 and 3 p. m. Friday.

The second year class won the football game 10-2. They won the gang fight hands down. The gang fight consists of a struggle between the two classes for possession of three stuffed canvas bags a foot in diameter and three feet long. Both sides try to pull the bags to their end of the football field.

A tug of war was staged in a mud puddle and the sophomores won this contest too. Even in the softball game between the Freshmen and Sophomore girls, the freshmen had the short end of it, losing 2 to 6.

Games of the brawl were under the supervision of high school coach, George Abbott.

CENTENARY OF DONNER PARTY OBSERVED SEP. 21

TRUCKEE, Sept. 16—One hundred years ago the great westward migration from the east to California was at its peak. Among the legions of seekers of the good life California offreed was a small band to be knewn as the Donner party. After numerous delays they arrived at the foot of the eastern slope of the Sierras at Truckee Lake—now called Donner Lake—where they were trapped by the early heavy snows. Their epic tragedy has made that party a symbol of all the pioneers who came west prior to the gold rush.

This week end, September 21-22, Truckee Post No. 439, American Legion, is sponsoring the Donner Centennial. Featuring a golf tournament at Tahoe City, turkey shoots in Truckee and a pioneer dance and whiskerino contest Saturday night, the observance will be climaxed by a memorial service at Donner Monument on Sunday morning.

The principal speaker at the service will be Carroll D. Hall curator of Sutter's Fort museum and an outstanding authority on California. Rt. Rev. Noel Porter, Episcopal Bishop of Sacramento, will offer invocation and benediction. Several descendants of the Donner Party members will be on hand for the service.

Bridal Shower For Mrs. Robt. George

A bridal shower in honor of Mrs. Robert George was given recently by Mrs. Beatrice George and Miss Marjorie George at their home 151 Conaway Avenue, Grass Valley.

Games were the pastime of evening followed by delicious refreshments served from beautifully decorated bridal table laid with an Irish linen cloth and adorned with white tapers arranged on either side of a lovely wedding cake.

A wishing well decorated in pink and green held a charming array of gifts. The bride, Mrs. Robert George is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Edwards who formerly lived in Grass Valley. She is graduate of the local schools of Mount. St. Mary's Business College. Her husband received his discharge from the armed services last month. The young couple are making their home in Sacramento where both are employed.

Virtual assurance that the Nevada City-Indian Flat road will be completed in 1947 was received Thursday afternoon by the Nevada County delegation in its hearing before the State Highway Commission in Sacramento, Thursday afternoon at 2 p. m.

Charles H. Purcell, chairman of the commission, and George F. McCoy, State Highway engineer told the delegation headed by Nevada City chamber, President H. S. Foreman, that the Indian Flat Road would be considered when allocating funds for the next biennial budget.

The Nevada County delegation consisted of Foreman, H. F. Sofge, Secretary, Chamber of Commerce, Ray Kronemeyer, secretary-manager of the Grass Valley Chamber of Commerce, Tom Coan, Earl Field and William L. Davis, Indian Flat residents. Fred Charles Garrison of the Nevada City-Grass Valley Union, and Harley M. Leete, Jr., of the Nevada City Nugget.

The delegation was accompanied by Clark Galloway of the highway committee of the State Chamber of Commerce and Steven Paxton, Sacramento district manager of the state chamber. Paxton introduced members of the group to the commission.

H. S. Foreman in a brief address to the commission, called attention to the hazardous condition of the 3 1-2 mile stretch of road between this city and Indian Flat. He related how the Cal-Ida Lumber Company had estimated that $40,000 worth of trucks were wrecked on that road this year. That company was also reported to be exporting lumber to Nevada, rather than selling it in this state partly because of the road hazard.

Recent figures, Foreman said, showed that 187 loads of lumber were going through the Nevada City-Grass Valley area daily. Foreman, concluded by introducing Ray Kronemeyer, who briefly substantiated Foreman's argument.

William L. Davis of Indian Flat, emphasized the danger to school children who travel the road twice a day by bus. He stated that his own children would be sent to boarding school until the new road was completed.

In response to a question from Chairman Purcell, State Highway Engineer McCoy said that it would be impossible to lay down a bituminous surface on the new straightaway road this fall because of the imminent approach of wet weather.

The Nevada County delegation was heard by the highway commission in the commission's oak-paneled assembly room at the Department of Public Works Building on N Street in Sacramento.

JUST WONDERIN'

I wonder at the curious things
That human beings do;
Of course I don't include myself,
My Uncle Si or you;
But there are those right here at home
And others far away,
And oh, the very curious things
Those humans do and say!

If we were searching for a name descriptive of this present season in world history, we might call it the era of Much Talk. Listen for a day and you will readily perceive that every body is talking and that every body is talking about everything; The I. Q. of all this talk ranges all the way from that which is highly illuminative to that which leads the listener through obscure jungles of confusion.

It is indeed hard to discuss a subject with any degree of lucidity, unless one has all around knowledge of the subject under observation and few of us have that all around knowledge; still, we talk of this and that and every thing else and feel quite competent to pass judgement upon the great and near great, the things they do and the words they speak. No one has an inferiority complex when it comes to passing judgement, no one seems to doubt the correctness of his opinions and so we who must listen, hear contending voices raised in cool or heated argument and more often than otherwise, wonder what it is all about and who is right.

Curious admissions are being made here and there. Mr. Stalin, for instance, asks for a postponement of the general assembly and the excuse is offered, that he has not enough trained diplomats to use in two places at one time. If Mr. Stalin will lend his ears to the discussions of the Paris conference, he will learn that the great western powers are in the same fix.

The stubborn leaders of the maritime strike which is crippling our sea ports at the present time, calls upon Washington "to nationalize the meat industry," Consistent, isn't it?

We are told that our American school system is the best in the world and again we are told that it fails to give to young America that degree of enlightenment concerning the nation and its institutions which every prospective citizen should have and that, in consequence, the young people are developing half baked ideas, some of which border on communism.

It is all very confusing and if we are not expert analysts, it might be well to suspend judgement upon important subjects controversial, until we can get our own ideas in proper shape and begin to see things as they really are. One must be willing to grow up, if he wishes to understand his time and place in the confused pattern of daily events, for only mature minds can grasp their potentialities and properly evaluate the pros and cons.

Uncle Silas says: "'One may develop an agile mind these days; believing one thin togday and just the opposite tomorrow. An agile mind is perhaps desirable, but when it becomes acrobatic—that is something else."—Adeline Merriam Conner.

STATE FAIR TO RESUME IN 1947

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 16—Directors of the State Agricultural Society voted at their meeting here to hold a 1947 California State Fair at Sacramento.

Directors ordered E. P. Green, recently appointed secretary manager, to prepare plans and budget needs, which will be submitted to the 1947 session of the state legislature for approval.

Green pointed out that because of the heavy rehabilitation and repair work necessary after the army's occupation of the exposition grounds during the war years, plus materially increased costs that it will be necessary for the legislature to provide a deficiency appropriation of $500,000 in order to hold a 1947 fair.

The board was also unanimous in a resolution requesting the fair management to begin immediately the preparation of preliminary plans and budgets for the state fair's part in the 1848, 1948 and 1950 Centennial Celebrations.

Dr. James E. McConnell, Sonora, chairman of the fair board's centennial committee and a member of the state chamber of commerce group coordinating centennial events, said that indications are that the exposition will play an important part in the state wide activities that are being planned for the centennial years.

WORLD BOARD TO DISTRIBUTE FOOD NOW PROPOSED

By Ralph H. Taylor

The proposal of the Food and Agricultural organization of the United Nations to set up a food board to establish and regulate an ever-normal granary, with power to control food prices and distribution over the world was announced in Washington about the time H. L. Mencken gave his first newspaper interview in a long while.

Now there is no direct connection between the FACs proposal and what the aging Sage of Baltimore had to say. Mencken didn't even mention the world food control plan. But the barb tongued iconclast of the 1920s who was quite the rage among young intellectuals of those days and is somewhat passe now (the fate that overtakes the soothsaying wits of every generation if they live long enough) did repeat one of his pet ideas that is eternally fresh because it has considerable truth in it. This is the accusation that a native American weakness is refusal to recognize the tough fact that there are some human problems which admit of no simple, utter final solution.

No man as clever as Mencken can sound off as often as he has, even maliciously and with tongue in cheek without hitting the nail of truth on the head now and again. He is right in this instance. We Americans as a people have enough virtues so we can afford admiring a national fault. Here sardonic Mencken puts the finger on one that we cannot dodge. We have more regulatory laws—federal, state and community—than any other people on earth. Each one of numberless directive statutes was set up to solve permanently some social ill—and most of them have actually worsened the condition they were designed to remedy.

In the large, the pattern of the New Deal is an example to justify the Mencken criticism. The New Deal's purpose was high and laudable. It was designed to cure the depression that gave it excuse for birth—but to cure all causes of depression and business failure for all time to come. It attempted to solve over night problems that have beset mankind thu the ages. And so it failed. And so the New Deal is receding in the United States.

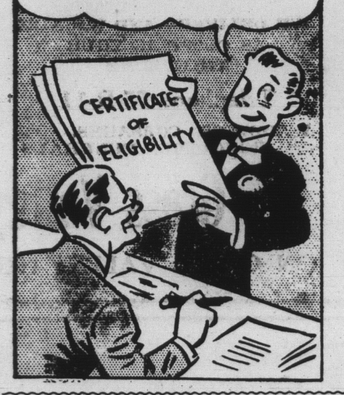

But now unfortunately arises this insistent and vocal movement to expand the specious principles of the New Deal on a planetary scale. The FACs proposed world food board would undertake to stabilize food prices in all world markets. It would do this by buying up surpluses wherever these come into being and selling them when and where they are needed at whatever prices the needy can pay, if anything. The FAC plan is for the WFB to include representatives of other international organizations—the bank of reconstruction and development, the economic commission of the United States and the proposed international trade organization.

Here we have the New Deal pattern all over again—alphabet soup and all. Of course unregimented world markets have never worked perfectly. Nothing is perfect in this world. But because a thing isn't perfect doesn't mean that a vast, unwieldly cure all wont make it worse.

Not for its novelty, since is follows the too familiar pattern of power enforced happiness for the common man, comments the Pacific Coast Edition of the Wall Street Journal, but for its blind acceptance of impossible ways and means to a desirable end the program of international action ofered by the FAO is worth a lifted eyebrow or two. It is a scheme which only a world monopoly of food production and marketing backed by the armed force of angelically cooperating governments could imaginably carry out.

No one can question the desirability of moving food from where it is surplus to where people cannot get enough to eat. But that is precisely what free markets in private hands undertake to do. It is only by serving the objective and in the measure they serve it — that free markets can function actively. The total result is the only kind and degree of price stabilization which avoids disasters of national scope.

It is to be hoped not only for the welfare of U. S. agriculture and all U. S. industry and labor but for the welfare of the entire troubled world, that a cure all version of New Deal stamp will not be permitted to shackle and enslave internationally the system of free enterprise. We have something which isn't perfect—but which is workable and improvable. We dare not discard it for a familiar pattern of power enforced happiness which would saddle the world and the United States with it with an impossible world food monopoly—or any other kind of world monopoly.

EMPLOYMENT IN STATE SHOWS BIG INCREASE

Civilian employment in California is 100,000 over a year ago and through the summer there has been a rise in industry output, individual incomes and trade, the current economic report of the California State Chamber of Commerce declares. State agency estimates indicate seasonal peak employment in September may reach the war peak levels of 1943.

Despite various obstacles to construction and full production since the end of the war, civilian employment increased to 3,500,000 in July as compared to 3,157,000 in February low point of the reconversion period, the report states. Present employment is in excess of 100,000 over a year ago.

Although July's total employment in California manufacturing was 25 per cent below the war time levels a year ago due mainly to contraction of aircraft and shipbuilding, the number working was 692,000 or 61.7 per cent above the 1940 average. Textile, apparel, paper, tire, leather, glass, cement, steel mills, foundries, hardware, sheet metal and automobile industries operate at higher levels than a year ago. A record pack of canned, frozen and dried fruits and vegetables is in prospect.

Unemployment as reflected in unemployment compensation claims, shows a substantial decline since February and March. In the week ending Aug. 22, approximately 116,000 civilian workers filed claims, half the number filing last winter.

PERPETAL MOTION PLANE

The Sunday LondUon newspaper the People reports that British natural scientists were developing a "perpetual motion" airplane that could fly nonstop at 1650 miles an hour. Ministry of aircraft officials, asked for comment said that while experiments were going on constantly it would be nonsense to say that any such plane could be developed in the near future. The People said a "revolutionary propulsive duct" similar to the jet, would make possible aircraft requiring no fuel except for taking off and landing. "Once the machine reaches a speed of more than 650 miles an hour it becomes a perpetual motion plane."

The National Conservation Bureau says the cost of traffic accidents in 1945 amounted to approximately $1,450,000,000—almost one and a half billion dollars. RECIPE OF THE MONTH

Potato pancakes are an ideal dish to serve for a hearty breakfast and especially appropriate now that we are economizing on wheat flour. Serve crisp bacon, plump brown sausage links or panbrooled slices of luncheon loaf alongside. Dried apples or applesauce may be the third member of a very satisfying trio.

Potato Pancakes

2 cups grated raw potatoes
2 eggs
1-2 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon flour
1-4 cup lard or drippings

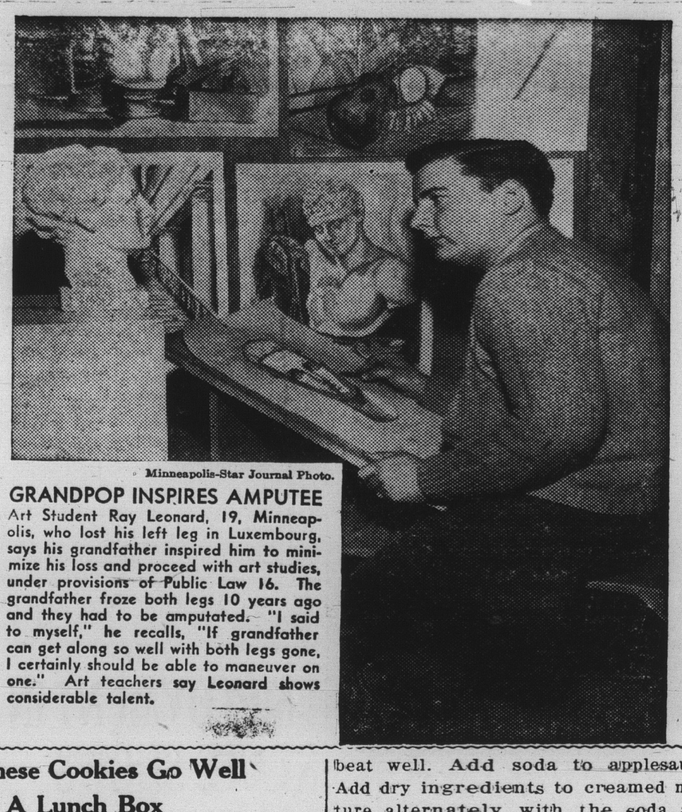

Peel and grate our medium potatoes. Measure. Combine all ingredients except lard. Drop by spoonfuls into hot lard or drippings. When brown, turn with pancake turner. Serves 4.

VISIBLE BLACK LIGHT

The black light below the red end of the spectrum can be made visible by a new process worked out by Dr. Gordon Fonda of the General Electric laboratories. Zinc sulphide which produces phosphorescence with ultra violet light is used with a fraction of a per cent of lead added. The zinc sulphide screen first is illuminated with ultra violet light which causes it to glow. After the glow has faded it can be caused to glow again by having the infra red black light fall on it.

GRANDPOP INSPIRES AMPUTEE

Art Student Ray Leonard, 19, Minneapolis, who lost his left leg in Luxembourg, says his grandfather inspired him to minimize his loss and proceed with art studies, under provisions of Public Law 16. The grandfather froze both legs 10 years ago and they had to be amputated. "I said to myself," he recalls, "If grandfather can get along so well with both legs gone, I certainly should be able to maneuver on one." Art teachers say Leonard shows considerable talent.

These Cookies Go Well In A Lunch Box

That "something sweet to top off the meal" is just as important in a lunch box as it is in a meal served at home. It's a good idea to include fruit often; but children and grown ups alike will appreciate having something to go with the fruit.

These Bran Applesauce Cookies are unusual and very tasty. The use of bran cuts down on the flour needed. Either canned or homemade applesauce may be used. Carefully strained drippings or home rendered fats which have been properly stored in the refrigerator may take the place of lard, if desired.

Brand Applesauce Cookies

1 3-4 cups sifted fuolr
I teaspoon cinnamon
1-2 teaspoon nutmeg
1-2 teaspoon cloves
1-2 teaspoon salt
1-2 cup lard
1 cup sugar
1 egg
1 teaspoon soda
1 cup sweetened applesauce
1 cup raisins
1 cup shredded bran

Sift flour with spices and salt. Cream lard and sugar; add egg and beat well. Add soda to applesauce. Add dry ingredients to creamed mixture alternately with the soda and applesauce. Add raisins and shredded bran. Drop by teaspoonfuls on greased baking sheet, about 2 inches apart to allow for spreading. Bake in moderate oven 375° F. 15-20 minutes. Yield' 3 dozen cookies 2 1-2 inches in diameter.

LOST—A CONTINENT

Another continent which included in its area the islands of Australia, and Antarctica, uniting these and other islands in that region and extending far to the west in what is now deep Antartica and Indian Ocean waters, existed in relatively recent geogolical time. This is indicated by a report of the Ausralian Antarctic Expedition on the geology of the small Marquarie Island south of Australia published after a delay of more than 30 years. The ice cap now centered on the south pole was centered much farther north in this continental mass. This is indicated by marks of glaciation on the island giving evidence of an ice flow from the west. This vanished ice cap would have been diametrically opposite the Greenland ice cap in the northern hemisphere.

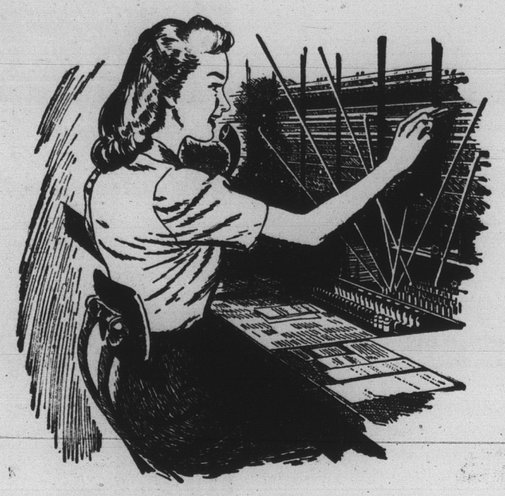

HUMIDITY CONTROL

Homes in humid climates may now be comfortable with a new chemical that picks up the moisture from the air. A few beads of the material in a shaker will keep salt from caking. A handful in a toolbox will prevent rusting. As compared with silica gel, the commonly used desiccant the new material is extremely hard and durable and it not eventnally reduced to a fine dust. It can be used open in a room or in an airconditioning unit to dry the air as it passes through. The beads can be dried out by heating them at 300 degrees and used over and over again.

TIRES TIRED?

Drivers are reminded by National Automobile Club that hot weather and friction heat from fast driving are frequently the cause of blow-outs. Keeping the speed of the vehicle within reasonable limits will not only conserve the tires and possibly prevent an accident but also means the driver will be able to control the car in event of a blow out which is possible on the "tired tires" on so many cars today.

KNOWLAND URGES AID EMBARGO ON YUGOSLAVIA

Following closely upon his demand of last week that the state department effect the immediate release of three American soldiers held by Yugoslavia or he would petition the senate to embargo supplies being sent Tito, United States Senator William F. Knowland has telegraphed President Truman demanding that the embargo be put into effect immediately.

Declaring that the Yugoslav government has been repeatedly evidencing unfriendliness, belligerency to the United States despite the fact that this country is sending millions of dollars of supplies there, the senator promised Truman that, if he did not have sufficient power to halt these shipments, Knowland would take the lead in initiating legislation to authorize an embargo. The telegram reads:

"In view of the fact that the Tito government in Yugoslavia has demonstrated several times an unfriendly and belligerent attitude toward the government and the people of the United States, I urge that immediate steps be taken to bring to a halt future shipments to Yugoslavia. The American people have given generously of their resources to their allies in the winning of the war and in the rehabilitation of the post war world.

"We have no obligation to continue assistance to a nation which has shot down one unarmed American transport plane with the loss of the entire crew, have forced down another one and which for some months refused to permit three soldiers of the United States to leave that country though they were in no way involved in the matter under investigation. In effect these American soldiers have been held as hostages.

"The records show that during the war Yugoslavia received more than 32-million dollars in lend lease for which no settlement has been made. During the latter part of 1945 and the early part of 1946 they have been permitted to buy one million and a quarter dollars worth of railroad equipment. Up to the end of July, 1946, they had received over three hundred and twenty seven million dollars in commodities from UNRRA with the United States supplying over seventy per cent of the tohtal.

"Under the circumstances, the payment of money by the Tito government for the loss of these American lives cannot compensate their families or this nation. For a government of doubtful legality, it would only be taken as the price of a hunting license for future overt acts.

"It is my belief that there is ample power in the presidential office to forthwith stop all shipments to Yugoslavia. If you do not have sufficient power, I shall stand ready to join with other members of congress in supporting such legislation as may be necessary for this purpose. I have circularized the members of the United States senate relative to this matter and have requested their support."

(Signed) William F. Knowland,
United States Senator.

FOR AN ECONOMY DISH SERVE A RICH VARIETY MEAT LOAF

Many homemakers are not aware of the fact that some of the variety meats make delicious meat loaves. In fact this is an excellent way to introduce these meats to your family if you're not in the habit of serving them. Other meats may be combined with the variety meat to give added flavor and richness.

When used in loaves or patties liver is usually cooked slightly befor it is put through the meat grinder. This merely makes it easier to handle. It may be either simmered in water for a few minutes or browned in a frying pan; but it should not be cooked completely:

Here are two tested recipes for variety meat loaves that are economical, easy to prepare and have a rich, zesty flavor.

Kidney and Bacon Loaf

1 pound beef kidney
1 cup milk
8 slices bread
1-4 cup bacon drippings
2 eggs
1 green pepper, minced
1 1-2 teaspoons salt
1-4 teaspoon pepper
3 tablespoons grated onion
1-2 teaspoon powdered sage
Sliced bacon

Wash kidney in cold water. Drain and trim. Grind, including internal fat. Soak bread in milk. Combine all ingredients except bacon. Line bottom of pan with slices of bacon. Pack loaf mixture firmly into pan. Bake in a slow oven 300 degrees for 1 1-2 hours.

Sausauge and Liver Loaf

1 pound ground liver
1 pound bulk pork sausage
1 1-2 cups bread crumbs
1 cup milk
1 tablespoon finely minced onion
2 tablespoons ketchup
2 tablespoons prepared horseradish
1 egg, slightly beaten

Cook liver for a few minutes in hot water or brown in a small amount of drippings in a frying pan. Grind and combine with bulk pork sausage. Add bread crumbs and seasoning, moisten with milk and beaten egg. Pack into greased loaf pan and bake in a slow oven 300 degrees, for 1 1-2 hours.

Horse Hits Car In Freak Accident At Donner Lake

A sharp decline in the number of motor vehicle accidents in the Truckee area during the past week was reported by officers of the California highway patrol.

During the past week only two persons were injured in automobile mishaps, according to H. B. Fowler, patrolman in charge of the Truckee squad. These included one freak accident in which a horse was killed and a woman injured near Donner Lake on Saturday night.

According to Patrolman K. C. Kolb and M. A. Peterson who investigated, a horse owned by James McCann and Ike Springer had strayed onto the highway. The animal dashed into a car driven by Edwin O. Brown, 25, Meridian, came over the hood and through the windshield of the car. Mrs. Brown, 21, was treated by Dr J. H. Bernard for minor injuries. The horse was killed and the officers cited the owners of the animal for violation of the state agricultural code.

In the second accident, Robert Evans, 34, Tahoe Inn, Lake Tahoe, was badly injured when he ran in front of a car driven by Mrs. Cecile C. Gessler, Reno, last Thursday evening on the main street of Truckee. Officers Koob and Peterson who were witnesses to the accident, said Evans was obviously intoxicated and that he was cited for violating the county's osbriety ordinance. Mrs. Gessler was not detained.

Mrs. Stella Watson on Monday had a most unusual accident. While driving her coupe on the highway near Lake Forest a horse, which had broken from its pasture virtually attacked her car as she rode past. Rearing high in the air, its hoofs struck the windshield, shattering it. Both the hood and fender on the left side were damaged but Mrs. Watson was unhurt.

McCabe loved the out of doors, was enthusiastic hunter and an expert fisherman. He was a charter member of the Mine Woorkers Protective League.

Surviving is his wife, Mrs. Agnes McCabe, two stepsons, Thomas and Ray Hall of Grass Valley and two nieces, Mrs. Lois LeDuc and Mrs. Emma Southern.

Funeral services will take place under the direction of the Hooper and Weaver Mortuary on Monday, September 16th, in St. Patrick's Catholic Church.

U. C. Enrollment Expected Is 22,500 Students

BERKELEY, Sept. 16—Registration of an estimated 22,500 students will begin on the Berkeley campus of the University of California tomorrow morning.

Starting two days earlier than usual the registration is expected to move smoothly and rapidly through the rest of this week despite the great influx of new students most of them coming under the educational provisions of the GI Bill of Rights.

Estamites of the size of this year's student body have been difficult to make, but Registrar Thomas B. Steel forecasts a Berkeley registration of between 20,000 and 25,000. The previous high was in the fall of 1939 when 16,199 enrolled.

New and returning students who were not at the university last spring will register Tuesday and Wednesday; students who were in attendance last spring will register Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Preparations for handling the huge registration include the use of a large circus tent which has been set up across from the men's gymnasium where registration normally takes place. Here admission and veterans credentials will be checked before students are admitted to the gymnasium in an effort to eliminate bottlenecks and standing lines.

WESTINGHOUSE FOUNDED 60 COMPANIES

George Westinghouse the centennial of whose birth is being celebrated this year founded 60 companies to manufacture his many inventions and developments in the electric, marine, railroad and natural gas industries. When he died in 1914 the companies he founded were worth $200,000,000.

Cattle Poisoned By Molydenub

DAVIS, Sept. 16—Four divisions of the University of California College of Agriculture are studying molybdenum poisoning of dairy cattle in Kern County.

Previously studies made by Dr. Howard Goss, professor of animal husbandryy and Dr. J. W. Britton, veterinary science division showed an unsolved malady to be due to molybdenum in pastures.

The area involved covers 400 suqare miles around Buena Vista Lake in Kern County. Much of this is over the old bed of the Kern River which now flows farther north. In consequence the land is undermined by decomposing tule growth and water tables in some places within three feet of the soil surface.

Apparently according to studies made the poison is cumulative and the cattle do not become ill for weeks or months. Then they become emaciated, their coats fade in color and anemia usually is marked. The young cattle are affected more than older ones and dairy animals more than beef. Sheep rarely are affected and swine and horses are reported to be resistant.

Several dairy ranches in Kern County have been abandoned as a result of the difficulty; dairy heifers from Los Angeles county on feed there have been severely affected. According to Mrs. Goss and Britton the disease similar to that called tearness in England needs much more study before it is solved.

BUSINESS WOMEN URGE ALL VOTERS TO REGISTER NOW

State, national and local government is your responsibility because the authority of government, in a democracy stems from the individual. If the individual's attitude is indifference or apathy—democracy may be lost—Miss Lily O. Hawkinson, Los Angeles president of the California Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs cites, as she is accelerating the registration and voting campaign of the scores of women's organizations comprising the California federation.

The National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs at its July meeting in Ohio declared that the elections this fall are as important as any in the history of the nation and recommended that all members work aggressively for heavy registration and voting, study the candidates and concentrate on educating new voters to their responsibilities at the polls..

The government of the state and nation is the people. The authority of government stems from the individual. If his or her attitude is one of indifference the ideals of democracy may be lost.

Each election year a larger number of individuals have accepted their responsibility but the result is still far from the desired goal of a vote by the majority of qualified Americans.

The California Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs has accepted the dictum of its national organization and will effectively work to have their own members and their families register and vote, also assist in every community in the state in order to insure the largest participation and make democracy work.

Registration closes September 26. Persons not registered by that date cannot vote at the important November geenral election.

Lunch Found Intact In Fossil Monster

BERKELEY, Sept. 16—A 30 million year old fossil animal with his lunch still intact has been uncovered by University of California paleontologists.

The animal which belongs to the genus known technically as borhyena, was a carnivorous marsupial with habits similar to a wolf or hyena. Commonly known marsupials today are oppossums and kangaroos.

The beast apparently died shortly after dining on a histricomorph rodent which belonged to a prehistoric group of animals related to the porcupine and guinea pig. Skeltal remains of the rodent are so well preserved that it is obvious the borhyena didn't have time to digest it fully. The rodent's bones are smashed, nidicating it had been chewed by the heavy molars of the borhyena.

Dr. R. A. Stirlton, associate professor of paleontology who brought the specimen back from Colombia, S. A. last year says the animal may have been drowned by a flood and covered by fine sand.

The finding of intestinal remains in such fossils is a rarity Dr. Stirton says. Usually animals are not covered immediately and their remains are scattered widely making it impossible to determine whether any recovered material had been in the stomach.
